

Previously Unseen Keaton Films!

EXCLUSIVE

Only at the 14th Annual International Buster Keaton Convention

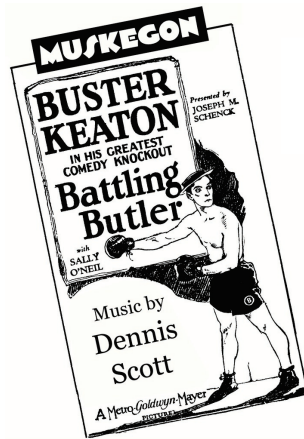

You've Never Seen These!

A truly unique opportunity to see TWO Keaton films that we guarantee you've never seen before.

Our first treat, presented Friday evening by film archivist Paul E. Gierucki, is a surprising new discovery—an early version of a silent Keaton feature that is vastly different from the way we see it now. This film includes additional footage not seen publicly since it was originally shown more than 80 years ago!

Our second find, shown Saturday, is the only known film Keaton had complete creative control over after 1928. Presented by Dale Duffy, stage manager for Keaton's 1957 stage production of Merton of the Movies, who literally rescued this gem from the trash after production. She will share stories, rare behind-the-scenes photos and more!

Buster Keaton Double Feature

Don't miss the double feature at Muskegon's movie palace, the 1,500-seat Frauenthal.

This year, we're showing Battling Butler and The Navigator with live music by Chicago theater organist Dennis Scott.

And There's Even More!

- Play baseball on the same baseball field Buster played on as a child
- Tour the Actors' Colony co-founded by Joe Keaton
- See rare Keaton television and film appearances
- Hear a panel discussion of authors talk about Keaton's life and work
